

Press Contact:
Melissa Strain
Marketing Manager
757.221.7856
mmstrain@wm.edu
4/1/2016

William and Mary Dining Services Ranked Among the Top 20 University Food Services in the Country

WILLIAMSBURG, VA, 4/1/16 – College Rank recently published an article entitled “The 50 Best College Dining Experiences,” by Katie Young. The website uses rankings and other comparative data to help future college students choose which college or university to attend. Young’s article lists the universities that provide the best meals for their students based on versatility, nutrition and wellness, sustainability, and accessibility for students with specific dietary needs.

The College of William and Mary ranked 19 out of 50, ahead of many universities including Brown, Duke, Stanford, Yale, and Harvard. The College of William and Mary earned its ranking for the number of facilities it offers, and its attention to student health with a nutrition calculator on the William and Mary Dining Services website. Young also cited the institution’s impressive sustainability-oriented initiatives and use of locally grown ingredients.

William and Mary Dining Services’ constant objective is to keep its students physically healthy and nutritionally aware. The staff keeps dining exciting with innovative events including holiday meals, cultural events, and special-themed cooking nights.

Press Contact:
Melissa Strain
Marketing Manager
757.221.7856
mmstrain@wm.edu
4/1/2016

Additionally, William and Mary Dining Services promotes sustainability campaigns like the Choose to Reuse recycled green boxes, and intends to continue implementing more earthy-friendly projects in the future. With a dedicated team and incredible facilities, the food service at the College of William and Mary will only continue grow and improve as it serves its students.

The full article is available at www.collegerank.net/best-college-dining-halls.

###